RICH TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL
PARK FOREST, ILLINOIS

FOREWORD

In the four years that the fumbling freshman football squad developed into the undefeated conference champs of '59, that the noisy Cadet Chorus became the harmonious Singing Rockets, that meek student council candidates became self-assured school leaders, that bewildered freshmen became confident seniors, familiar with logarithms, atomic theories, Sir Francis Bacon and Walt Whitman, a new school of 700 students became a great school of 1400 students.

This fall Rich's second new wing was completed a two story addition including a center for special education. Two study rooms were added to the library and 536 books added to its shelves. The kitchen and cafeteria were enlarged and an addition to the shop begun. A new trophy case was built and the basketball team played its first game on the new gym floor. The building at Westwood and Sauk Trail has reached its maximum size — yet it will continue to grow.

"We are a large school when we count noses, but a great one when we count minds". Dr. Robert G. Andree, Sept. 2, 1958.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Most of America's citizens are demanding more and better education for our American way of life. Strong effort to get a good education does not guarantee a better living, but it does help you to achieve it if you desire.

Board Members are particularly pleased when teenagers and adult citizens make full constructive use of the varied facilities and programs which are offered at Rich High.

Every board member hopes that the lessons learned here will make you fully able to stand on your own two feet — the strongest and best possible person in a complex and competitive society.

Russell Douglas
President, Board of Education

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

The twenty-first century is only forty-one years away. Most of you will see it; I intend to! Men will have wealth untold, and there will be less hunger in the world.

Any hunger in the twenty-first century could be more spiritual than physical. What can you do to keep it from our door? First — promise yourself a good family life, for it is the very essence of freedom. Secondly — promise yourself that everybody will have the chance to grow toward excellence. Thirdly — keep your mind open, with a desire to mix with men, ideas, and things.

Let's THINK ourselves into the twenty-first century. That will take dynamic motivation and creative individualism. Let it be said of your generation:

"It was successful because it used the power it already had!"

ADMINISTRATION

Curriculum and student activities are planned and coordinated by the Administrative Council. The Council, headed by Dr. Robert G. Andree, is composed of the Administrative Assistant, Mr. Robert Miller, Business Manager, Mr. Duane Kirchoff, Curriculum Consultant, Mrs. Lillian Davies, and the four division chairmen. This type of administrative organization permits a close working relationship between the faculty and administration, thus facilitating a strong, unified program.

The Division of Science and Mathematics introduced into its curriculum a math seminar and honors chemistry course for students who exhibited interest and ability in these fields. Seminar students pursued independent study and progressed at an individual pace. Honors chemistry students, using a college text, moved more rapidly than the average class. Physical improvements in the division included the addition of a combination physics-chemistry laboratory and two fully-equipped biology laboratories.

DIVISION OF LANGUAGE ARTS

The Division of Language Arts, aiming to strengthen students' communication skills inaugurated a four year developmental skills program with frequent writing exercises required of all students.

The foreign language program was broadened to include third year courses in Latin, French, and Spanish in addition to a second year course in German.

A general studies program offered special attention to students who had the ability to make academic achievement, but who lacked initative, while the honors program offered able and ambitious students the opportunity to do accelerated work.

Mr. Fisher probes the economic causes of the Civil War.

Experimental America history classes, three times the normal size and under the guidance of Mr. Hemeyer and Mr. Fisher, partially replaced the traditional type class as part of the Ford Foundation project for maximum teacher utilization. An advantage to the students in this class is the opportunity to receive two interpretations of American history from two teachers who emphasize different aspects of history.

Additional facilities, including two study rooms, ideal for social studies and literature research, a vocational materials room, and a tape recorder, enabling students to re-hear class lectures, made the library a center of learning.

DIVISION OF HEALTH, PHYSICAL EDUCATION AND SAFETY

Through a varied curriculum including group activities, driver education, and classroom study, the Division of Physical Education, Health and Safety developed leadership skills, and promoted physical health and safety.

The division was enlarged to include a program for students unable to profit sufficiently from the regular high school curriculum. Students participating in this program had access to a physical laboratory equipped with kitchen facilities, woodworking equipment and hand tools. Adjacent to this work area was a classroom in which the basic tool subjects were stressed with emphasis upon those skills necessary for competence in occupations.

DIVISION OF RELATED ARTS

The increase of facilities and introduction of new courses strengthened the 1958-1959 related arts program. The business department expanded, while music facilities were doubled with the addition of a soundproof band room and practice rooms. The industrial arts program was broadened to include an auto mechanics course, made possible by an extension of the shop.

Hail to thee Rich High, all Hail; Again we sing thy praise . . . The social hall, the music room, back stage. The locker room, the gym, the conference room. The main office, study hall, the library, the guidance office.
Conference champs. Thirteen busses to Joliet. C'mon Rich, let's go! Regional champs. The resounding gym, We're from Rich, couldn't be prouder. On to the sectional . . . defeat by Thornton . . .
Typing a term paper at 4 A.M. Studying a valence table, writing a theme, solving equations, seeking truth . . .
Proofing the Reveiller at Maplewood Press, reading "Kelly" over a bowl of chili. Trying out for the play, rehearsing, designing the set. Watching the play, congratulating the players. . . . Couldn't be prouder.
Spring fever, final exams, the Prom. Signing yearbooks: lots of luck, has been swell knowing you. Graduation, caps and gowns. Saying good-by . . . a tribute to her sons of old, All hail to the green and gold.

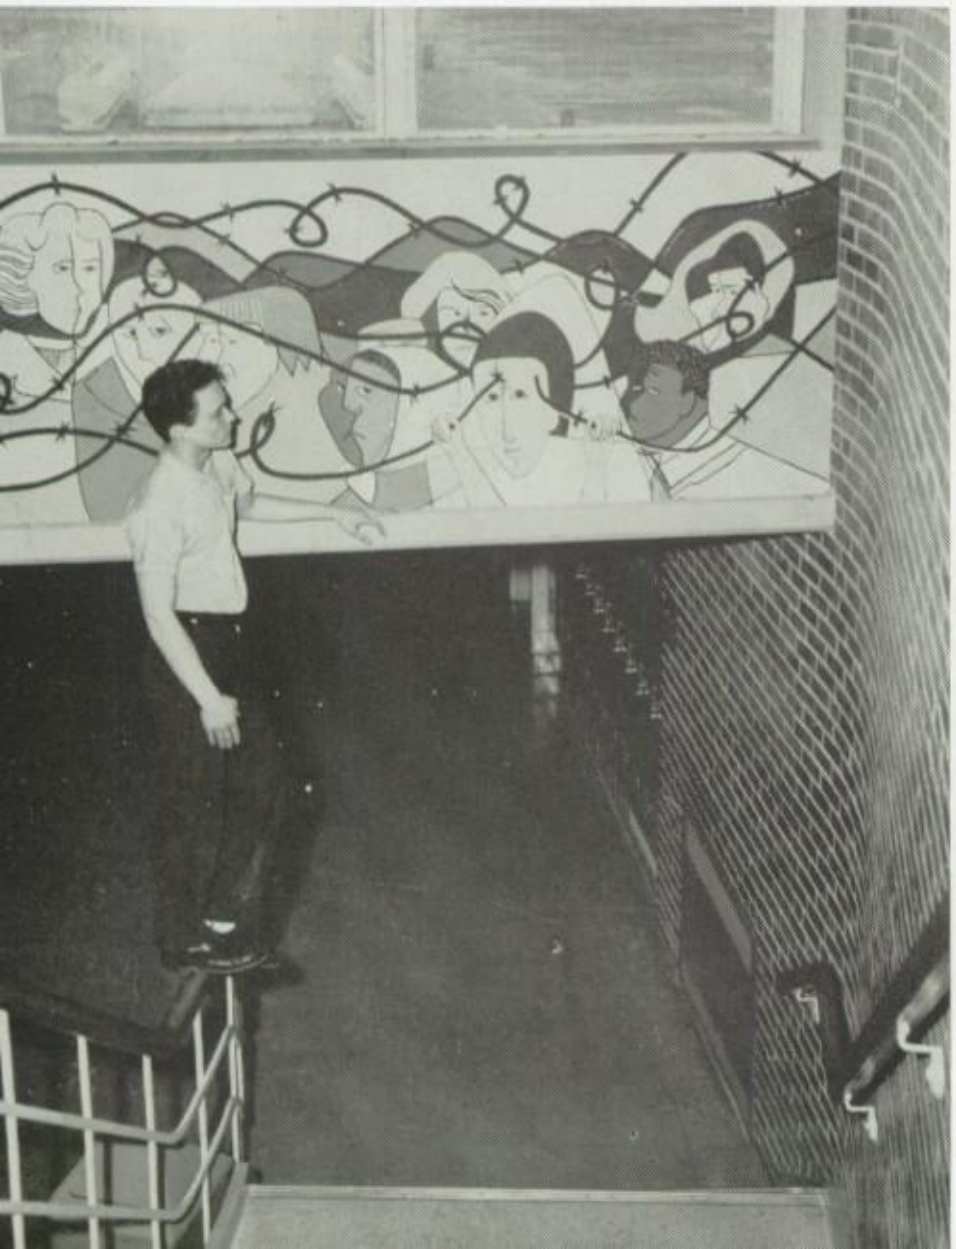
"Barbed Wire"



The junior class is confronted with a great challenge, for juniors must prove themselves an integral, dependable and durable part of Rich High. The continuation of high standards and traditions, as well as the success of new ideas and activities rest largely in the junior class' attitude and school spirit. Diligence, cooperation and hard work characterized the juniors as they participated in Homecoming, constructing the winning float, sponsored the Christmas formal, "Winterlude," and a mother-daughter social. Their final goal was to provide the graduating class with a lasting memory of high school life, the Junior-Senior Prom.

SOPHOMORES

The word "sophomore" is derived from two Greek words meaning "foolish" and "wise", and the word "sophomore" really fits the transition which the class has made. From the beginning of the year which carried overtones of the "foolish freshmen," the class has progressed — they built a homecoming float, handled the coat-check concession and elected class officers, Dick Horchler, Kathy Kaericher, Janice Young and Patricia Craddock, and student council representatives, Tom Eisner, Jan Furgason, Kathi Norris and Jim Klutznick. Both scholastically and athletically the sophomores were distinguished with many students qualifying for the honor roll and many being active in varsity debate, tennis and music.

Linda May exemplifies sophomore scholastic achievement.

Pep Rally.

It's a big step from being the rulers of the grammar school set to the lowly freshmen in high school; over four hundred individuals, quaking and apprehensive, took this step this year and began the seemingly endless four year climb. Problems soon faced the freshmen. To help solve these, they elected Jim Pyne, John Winger, and Monty Hughes to represent them in student government and Billy Belnap, Sara May, Joyce Rotman, and Bob Compbell to lead them in class activities. With tremendous eagerness, the freshmen began to participate in extracurricular activities and soon became known for their athletic prowess in football and basketball, and for their scholastic achievement on the honor roll. Slowly, one step at a time, the many individuals are uniting to form the graduating class of 1962.

The Rich High Rockets concluded their fall season with a 26 to 7 win over Zion-Benton to become the first undefeated football team in the school's history. The team combined fine offensive power with one of the best defensive units in the state to overwhelm all opponents and run its winning streak to fifteen straight games. Coach Dick Anderson was assisted by Bill Burghardt, Don Trimble and Rod Hanson. Tackle Bart Zeller and fullback Dan Kramer were co-captains of the squad. Lynn Mautz, Bart Zeller, Tom Johnston and Brian Mays all received all-conference honors; Brian also was selected for a quarterback position on the all-state squad.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

With the 1958-59 team, the Rockets of Rich High once again became a recognized basketball power in Illinois. Playing one of the toughest schedules in the state, the team compiled an eighteen won, nine lost record. Overwhelming all conference opponents the Rockets regained the title they lost to Bremen last year. The only conference loss came at the final game of the season when Oak Lawn turned the Rockets back 68-63. High points of the regular season were the 73 to 47 win over East Rockford and the Wheaton game in which guard Lynn Mautz rolled up 37 points to become the highest scorer since Roger Taylor. In the state elimination the Rockets, seeded fourth at the Joliet regional, went on to capture the title, setting two scoring records. In the first round sectional game, a lack of height made the difference as Rich bowed to Thornton of Harvey 71 to 49 to end the season.

The varsity wrestling team, coached by Mr. George Egofske, took fourth place in the Conference Wrestling Meet. Mike Hardy at 154 pounds, after winning the conference championship, captured district and sectional titles to qualify for state competition. Conference titles also were won by Bob Campbell in the 95 pound division and Phil Lehrfeld at 165 pounds. In its own Quadrangular Meet Rich took second place while Thornton Fractional won top honors.

STUDENT COUNCIL

In keeping with the democratic freedoms enjoyed at Rich, students elect class representatives to the Student Council, the most vital organ of student government.

The Council met weekly to plan and organize student activities and to coordinate the programs of various clubs. It raised money for the American Field Service by sponsoring "Bermuda Day"; students bought tickets and were permitted to wear bermuda shorts to classes. Stefan Jonsson, foreign exchange student at Rich, attended Council meetings to gain fresh ideas about student-supervised activities to bring back to his native Sweden.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

National Honor Society, composed of students who have demonstrated scholastic excellence by maintaining a 3.75 academic average for five semesters or a 3.5 average for seven semesters, inducted twelve juniors and fourteen seniors into its organization at a banquet in March.

The society inaugurated a student aid program to help pupils with minor difficulties in mathematics. Under the sponsorship of the group, students proficient in math helped those who were encountering problems.

QUILL AND SCROLL

The four members of the honorary journalism society, Quill and Scroll, earned their membership through outstanding performance on the Rich High News or Lagoon.

They were presented with their membership cards and pins at the awards assembly in May. In addition to a record of outstanding service, membership requirements include rank in the upper fourth of the class.

Sharon Bean, Michelle Rollins, Marion Levenson and Rita Herkert hold an informal meeting near the Lagoon

RICH HIGH REVEILLER

"We dub thee the Rich High Reveiller." So announced the first page of the bi-weekly paper culminating a search for a new name. Judges selected the name from entries submitted by the student body. Chosen also at this time was a motto, "Promise and achievement."

Continuing their program of expansion, the staff produced a ten page Christmas issue, the largest paper in the history of the school. An article on the Rich High FM station won a write-up for the school in a national magazine, while further recognition was gained when the Reveiller was awarded a First Class rating by the National Scholastic Press Association.

LAGOON

Hoping to gain fresh ideas for the '59 Lagoon, staff representatives Marion Levenson, Lucinda McGuire, Clarence Reynolds, and Jack Henning and faculty advisor, Leonard Peart, attended the Illinois State High School Press Association conference at the University of Illinois where they discussed modern yearbook trends with experts in the field. Striving to portray Rich as a modern growing school, the staff decided to introduce each section with modern abstract art and to sketch the development in academic and extracurricular fields.

Although cuts, heads, bleeds and dummies poured from the publications room as the staff prepared the 1959 Lagoon, room 226 nevertheless attracted guests — as faculty members came in to pay for their yearbooks on the nickel a day installment plan and students wandered in to play with the turtles or identify pictures, all eager to be a part of the turmoil and excitement of student publications.

BAND

Roberta Harris practices for district contest, where she won a superior rating for her baton solo.

The band gained statewide recognition as twenty-nine members participated in the state music contest after winning superior ratings in the district contest in March. As a marching band, it performed at all home football games and in the Homecoming Parade, adding color to the festive event. As a concert band, it presented a winter and spring concert, highlighted by novel musical adaptations. Divided into three sections, one-third of the band performed at each home basketball game.

QUARTET

Girls Quartet, Cindy McGuire, Kris Clayton, Sue Sharp and Pat Horton, winners of a superior rating at the District music contest.

Winter and Spring Concerts, caroling in the village and a Christmas performance at the Borg Warner Building in Chicago, were included in the schedule of the Rich High Singing Rockets. With Mr. James Simpson directing, the choir also presented an exchange concert with Bloom Township High School and participated with the Park Forest Symphony Orchestra in producing a concert. Members of the choir worked hard with three soloists and six ensembles winning superior ratings at the district music contest, striving to maintain the high level of achievement set by their predecessors, who in 1956 performed on the Ed Sullivan Show and sang on the steps of the National Capitol.

CHORAL CLUB

The Thanksgiving Concert, the December choral program, the spring choral concert and Senior Meditations provided opportunities for the Choral Club to perform and develop their musical talent. "Geronimo," a novelty number featuring a modern dance routine, was one of the highlights of the Thanksgiving Concert. Cooperating with the Choral Club on the December and spring choral concerts were the Boys' and Girls' Choruses.

BOYS' CHORUS

Open to all freshmen who like to sing, the Boys' and Girls' Choruses were created this year from the Cadet Chorus to give Mr. Simpson, director of the groups, more time to work with the individual problems of each voice type.

Do Re Mi Fa So La Ti Do

The aim of the groups was to achieve quality performance with maximum participation. The groups performed at the Christmas Concert and joined the other choral groups in the Spring Concert in May.

Violinists Barbara Potter and Marcia Morris, accompanied by Linda Purlee, rehearse for performance.

JUNIOR RED CROSS AND KEY CLUB

The Junior Red Cross, dedicated to the service of others, designed its activities to help the school, the community and the nation. Participating in the apple sale, members earned money for the Rich FM station.

The Key Club, the boys' service organization, had as its main project Peanut Day, which enabled the club to purchase a Language Master Machine for the Special Education Center. Its members also served as ushers at school affairs and sponsored a fall dance, "If Dreams Come True."

Organized to promote interest in creative writing, the Creative Writing Club, directed by Mr. Moore, improved the quality of writing of its members. Many of their best efforts were published in a local magazine.

The Debating Society represented Rich in interscholastic competition. Activities of the group included competitive debates with successful records at Northwestern University, Augustana College and Bremen Community High School.

Standing D. Dravnieks, B. Mohr, B. Varga, B. Mead, R. Beck, D. Simmons, J. Ward, J. Dolske, T. Lombaer

To promote interest in chess and acquaint novices with the game, the Chess Club held intra-club tournaments during their weekly meetings. This year's activities also included purchasing chess books for the library, participating in the apple sale and holding a banquet.

BIOLOGY CLUB

Seated T. Gagel, E. Ruehl, D. Simmons, Mr. Grismer, Mr. Matheny, J. MacDonald, S. Whale
Standing J. Dorn, D. Loden, R. Nielsen, P. Gunn, K. Lingner, R. Andree, B. Weinberg, C. Schmeckpeper, R. Strack, B. Mann, R. Ball, D. McIntyre, C. Lane

Biology Club invited guest speakers to club meetings so that members might gain a greater knowledge of biological sciences. Club members also prepared lectures and the group went on a field trip.

CAMERA AND MATH CLUBS

To gain practical experience in applying the fundamentals of the art of photography, members of the Camera Club clicked their shutters at such activities as Homecoming, the Halloween Dance and the Christmas formal.

Jack Henning searches for an unusual picture subject.

In order to further its members' interest in and the knowledge of mathematics beyond the classroom level, the Math Club, under the sponsorship of Mr. Donald Devine, was fortunate to hear lectures given by professional mathematicians. Other projects of the group included the sale of book covers and the organization of a project for the science fair.

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDES

Tape recorders, movie and slide projectors and record players are in the domain of the audio-visual aides. Aides assisted the classroom teachers in the use of this equipment. This year members of the group were instrumental in helping to outfit the new screening room.

LIBRARY AIDES

The library aides relieved Mr. Maturano and Mrs. Davis of many of the routine library tasks by checking out and shelving books, preparing overdue notices, rearranging the magazines and library furniture and thus helped to provide a more efficiently operated library.

SOCIAL ACT

Prom queen finalists, Sandy Cooper, Jill Logrbrinck, Sue Sharp, Terry Davis and Gloria Benson await the announcement of which one will reign over de La Mar.

de La Mar

Terry Davis, queen of the 1958 Prom.

. . . de La Mar — music — romance rides the waves,
The magic music drifting from underwater caves.
We danced in that magic under
rippling moonlight,
As we sailed to an island of sheerest delight.
The evening flowed on in swift but soft flight,
'Til with the last ripple, our kiss
meant goodnight.
The symphony lingers — 'til dawn
we'll dream on,
Then like the silent, creeping tide,
the music will be gone . . .

HOMECOMING

Homecoming game was played, according to tradition, on a slushy field, while fans watched the action from newspaper-covered bleachers. Mere sleet, however, failed to dampen Rocket spirit which had been aroused by a pep assembly, a breathless snake dance through the village, a blazing bonfire and a parade, as both varsity and frosh-soph Rockets conquered Oak Lawn teams. The double triumph was celebrated at the Homecoming dance, reigned over by Queen Kitty Dexter.

"WINTERLUDE"

A highlight of the holiday season was "Winterlude", the winter formal sponsored by the junior class and held in the social hall on December 23. The juniors decorated the scene with snowflakes, an open sleigh, a silver tree, frosted windows and mistletoe. Johnny Montella and his band supplied the music for the evening.

FALL PLAY

" . . . and your mother is on it — your mother ugly and your mother beautiful," and the play, Mrs. McThing, was concluded. Presented by the Speech-Drama department, the play was directed by Miss Elizabeth Brant.

The story centered around Mrs. Howard V. LaRue, a rich widow, and her son Howay. It showed how the LaRue household became involved with the witch, Mrs. McThing, who cast a spell on them. The situation further entangled them with the notorious Shantyland Pool Hall mob, which added to the turmoil.

The play, a comical fantasy, was designed purely to entertain and delight the audience.

"Who stole what boy? Mrs. McThing — she did it — she stole the real boy away."

" . . . don't ever throw this away. It would make a wonderful dickie for my green suit."

"Wait — listen — what tune am I playing?"
"Do the bass. — Melancholy Baby?"
"No, listen harder."

"Edward Arthur Schellenbach!"

"Do you know of a place called something like Shantyland Pool Hall or . . . "
"Yah!"

"What's the name, please?"
"The name? Whose name?"
"Your name, lady."

"Squirt."
"Yes, Mr. Schellenback"
"Set down, kid, Ya put me in a tough spot."

"Oh, girls, I have dates for you. I want you to meet Mr. Schellenback. And Mr. McGinnis. And Mr. St - - - en - - - Steinway."

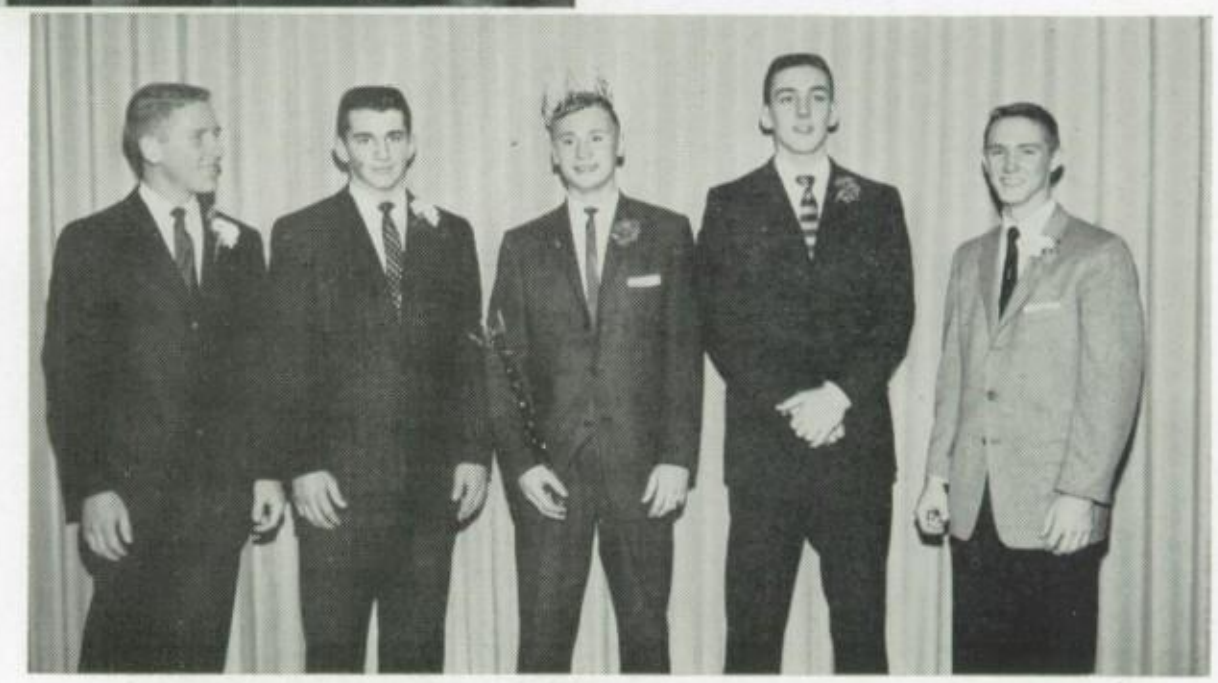
"Where is my child? . . . you betrayed your mother. Good-bye."

"I will never come again . . . But when you are happy, I will be there."

Mrs. McThing

MR. WONDERFUL

Ann Honig, GAA president, crowns Steve Jonsson king of the Spinsters Spree.



Steve Jonsson, "Mr. Wonderful," and his court, Brian Mays, Bart Zeller, Larry Gorman and Lynn Mautz.

A boutonniere for Beau Brummell!

The spirits of Sadie Hawkins and St. Valentine joined to give Rich High spinsters a gala spree as a song title became a memorable reality for the many turnabout couples attracted to "Mr. Wonderful." Adorned with corsages prepared by their escorts for the evening, the men made the most of their rare privilege of being guests of the girls. Reigning over the festivities was Mr. Wonderful, Steve Jonsson, selected by the couples attending the dance, and crowned by Ann Honig, GAA president. Sharing Steve's honor were members of his court, Larry Gorman, Lynn Mautz, Brian Mays and Bart Zeller.

Phil Wagner displays a radish and parsley boutonniere presented to him by his date Margaret Jones.

Dear Brian

As you grow older and wiser please try to remember this simple quotation from Ralph Waldo Emerson —

God grant me to except the things I cannot change; the courage to change the
~~the~~ things I can and the wisdom to know the difference —
Ronald
